To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to express my full support for the new Master Teacher Initiative by the Kinyan Organization, a program specifically geared to raise the level of educational expertise in every teacher.

The Master Teacher Initiative aims to provide the collegial support and feedback that, until now, has often been lacking. Adding this component as an additional leg of competence to a teacher's years of training and experience helps produce and maintain a high level of skilled professionalism. By highlighting the necessary competencies for creating healthy student-teacher relationships, ideal learning environments and effective classroom management strategies, the Master Teacher program enables both teachers and students to achieve their full potential within the classroom setting. Skill building, assessment and accountability make the Master Teacher program a unique and important asset to our educational institutions.

I believe that schools that employ the Master Teacher Initiative will experience immediate and enduring benefits for their staff and students.

Sincerely,
